Outraged farmers kill 600-year-old vampire!

By JON CORDIN

Polish farmers claim to have killed a vampire who terrorized people south of Krakow for the past 600 years!

Incredibly, a top pathologist says that the farmers must be telling the truth because analysis of the dead man's tissues indicates that he was born no later than the year 1389.

"I didn't believe that vampires existed — not until now," Dr. Antoni Ruch told newsmen in Krakow. "The dead man didn't appear to be a day over 50 but my tests proved otherwise.

"I would say that he was between 600 and 650 years old when the farmers killed him. I didn't know what to think when I first saw the body.

"Those men had literally driven a stake through his heart."

FARMER Czeslaw Jelonek says police didn't do anything to stop vampire attacks.

The mind-twisting drama reportedly began to unfold on April 3 — two days after 16-year-old Romana Paslawski was brutally raped, bitten and killed on a lonely road in Myslenice near Krakow.

The townspeople of Myslenice immediately suspected Bronislaw Faron — and more than a dozen outraged farmers vowed to kill him.

"Faron has killed 30 people since the end of World War 2 and he has attacked and bitten 50 more," farmer Czeslaw Jelonek told reporters.

"Everybody knew he was a vampire. Everybody knew he was a killer. But the police wouldn't do anything to stop him.

"They said they had no evidence to convict him."

Vigilante justice ends centuries of terror in small Polish town

MAP shows location of Polish village where grisly terror reigned for 600 years.

In fact, people knew hardly anything about Faron other than that he appeared to be wealthy, lived in a rundown mansion and always wore black.

And while it sounded like something out of a horror movie, there were long-standing allegations that he was, in fact, a blood-sucking vampire who had terrorized people for 600 years.

On the night of April 5, the farmers, including Jelonek, tossed tear gas canisters through the windows of Faron's 14-century castle in Myslenice.

When the killer ran out into the darkness gasping for air, someone clubbed him with stick.

Then a stake was driven through his heart.

The vigilantes made no bones about having taken the law into their own hands and they actually took Faron's body to police.

Oddly enough, no charges were filed against the farmers who murdered Faron.

And the cops say the case is closed.

"They know we were right to kill Faron, they just aren't in a position to say so," said Jelonek.

"But I guarantee you that they're as happy as we are that he is dead."

VAMPIRE Bronislaw Faron lived in this castle in Myslenice.

Rapist uses flashing blue light to chase down woman motorist!

By PETE COOKE

Cops say a woman who saw a flashing blue light in her rearview mirror thought she was going to get a ticket — but instead she got kidnapped and raped!

Police Chief Mark Champlin of Westerly, R.I., said the 40-year-old victim was visiting from New York when she noticed a flashing blue light behind her and pulled her car over.

The woman later told police that a man in civilian clothes approached her car and spoke to her before he overpowered her and handcuffed her.

Police Chief Champlin said the man drove the woman in her car to a secluded spot across the state line in Connecticut and raped her.

"After the attack he forced her out of the car in a wooded area, then drove her car back across the state line and got back in his own car," Chief Champlin said.

The victim made her way to a house and called authorities. Police then arrested 27-year-old Richard Texter, who was free on bail awaiting trial on charges of first-degree sexual assault and breaking and entering.

Texter was jailed on additional charges of kidnapping and sexual assault stemming from the highway attack.

Chief Champlin said blue lights like the one used to pull over the victim in this case are available in auto supply stores for under $7.

Authorities warned women motorists to be on guard if they are pulled over by an unmarked car.

"Women certainly have a right to be apprehensive," said Sgt. Robert Slattery of the Connecticut State Police. "If she's not sure it's a policeman, she should proceed, not increasing her speed and stop at an all-night service station

I'm in love again, says woman who shot her 3 kids!

Wedding bells for America's most hated mom

CHERYL Lynn Downs died when her mother shot her and her brother and sister.

Child killer Elizabeth Diane Downs — in her own words the most hated woman in America — has found someone who loves her!

And now the 33-year-old self-centered blonde wants to be married in the prison where she is serving a life plus 50-year sentence for murdering her daughter and crippling her two other childern.

By DICK DONOVAN

Mrs. Downs won't identify the new man in her life except to say he's a former Oregon cop who began a romance by mail after seeing her on the Oprah Winfrey TV talk show.

He began writing to her, she said, because he felt sorry for her!

"I've been married before, and I vowed I would never do it again," said Mrs. Downs, who was married for eight years to the man who fathered her three children. "But I'm in love."

Mrs. Downs was convicted of murder, attempted murder and assault after a dramatic six-week trial that came to a chilling climax when tearful 9-year-old Christie Ann testified against her.

The youngster said it was her mother, not a mysterious stranger, that shot her, her 7-year-old sister Cheryl Lynn and her 3-year-old brother Danny.

Cheryl Lynn died of her wounds. Christie Ann was left handicapped in her speech and Danny is paralyzed from the waist down.

Mrs. Downs, who was eight months pregnant at the time of the savage crime, claimed that on the night of May 19, 1983, a stranger stopped her car on a country road outside Springfield, Oreg.

She said it was that stranger who shot her children, then shot her in the arm when she refused to give him the keys to her car.

But prosecutor Fred Hugi successfully argued that Mrs. Downs shot her children because they were hampering her affair with a married man. He said she then shot herself in the arm to avert suspicion.

And Mrs. Downs' scheme fell apart when her daughter Christie Ann took the stand.

"What did you see?" the prosecutor asked.

"She shot Cheryl," Christie Ann answered, then broke into tears as she told how her mother leaned over the front seat of the car.

"What happened then?" Hugi coaxed.

"She shot Danny," the youngster replied.

"Who shot you?" Hugi asked.

"Mom," the sobbing child answered.

The jury deliberated for 36 hours before returning a verdict of guilty.

Mrs. Downs was transferred to a maximum security prison for women in Clinton, N.J., after escaping from the Oregon Correctional Center for Women by scaling a fence.

She remained at large for 10 days before she was found living with a group of men less than a mile from the prison.

Before she can wed her newfound love, Mrs. Downs must meet with the prison chaplain, then get approval

Grocer runs store on the honor system

A grocery store owner trusts her customers so much that she operates her business on the honor system, leaving the cash register open so people can pay for their purchases.

"I don't guess we've ever had anything stolen or ripped off that I know of," said Belva Rowe, owner of Rowe's Bait Shop & Grocery in Waltonville, Ill.

Mrs. Rowe's customers are permitted to pay for their purchases and make their own change from the cash register whenever she's not in the store. They also make their own sandwiches, pump gas and dip minnows.

"I trust everyone," said Mrs. Rowe, 53. "This is a

High-tech gadgets haven't improved old-time medicine

Doctors would do a better job of diagnosing illness if they ditched all their fancy hardware and relied on intuition, a shocking new study reveals.

Researchers at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque studied the results of 50,000 autopsies conducted between 1930 and 1977 and tle or no improvement in the accuracy of diagnoses in spite of sophisticated new medical equipment.

They concluded that doctors can do an equal or better job of diagnosing illness if they rely on intuition, ask careful questions and listen to what their patients tell them.

WOMAN'S CORPSE COMES BACK TO LIFE!

An undertaker said he "damned near fainted" when he wheeled a woman's corpse into the embalming room — and it sat up and talked to him.

"What have you done with my clothes?" asked widow Valerie Stevens, who had collapsed and died on a London, England, street an hour and 17 minutes earlier.

"I've been in this business for 20 years and I've never had a corpse talk to me," said mortician Eric Northrop. "I can tell you this, I damned near fainted dead away."

Undertaker shocked when dead widow asks: Where's my clothes?

Doctors cannot explain the 66-year-old widow's return from the dead, but suggested she could be a victim of cataplexy, a rare condition which temporarily shuts the body down.

Mrs. Stevens keeled over on a London street and was quickly rushed to Eastbourne District General Hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival in the emergency ward.

"I remember passing out as I started to cross the street," she said. "Later, I woke up as they put a sheet over my face.

"I thought, 'My God, they think I'm dead.' I couldn't move or speak, but I was aware of everything that was happening."

The widow's terrifying ordeal ended as she was being wheeled into the funeral home's embalming room on a mortuary cot. "It was as though I suddenly snapped out of a hypnotic trance. I could move and talk," said Mrs. Stevens.

She said the undertaker's eyes "nearly popped out of his head when I sat up."

VALERIE Stevens came back to life on a mortuary cot after she collapsed and died over an hour earlier.

Extensive medical tests by stunned doctors couldn't explain the woman's incredible return to the living.

"We are at a loss to explain it," said a hospital spokesman. "But our best guess is that Mrs. Stevens was a victim of cataplexy."

Michael Stead, who bought the cuddly critter for his 11-year-old daughter Rebekah, got slapped with the whopping bill after mechanics dismantled the dash to get Honey out.

BLIND PSYCHIC CAN SEE INTO THE FUTURE!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

America's most amazing psychic is 93 and totally blind — but he can see the future perfectly with his powerful mind.

Oldster Clintie Morris of Cincinnati, Ohio, has accurately predicted everything from international events to the whereabouts of a neighbor's lost cow. He is reputed to have foreseen President Richard Nixon's resignation in 1974, the Challenger explosion in 1986 and the rise to power of a Russian leader who would change his country for all time — a perfect description of Mikhail Gorbachev.

He predicts peace, prosperity and an end to cancer, heart disease & drug abuse

Now the sightless seer has agreed to share his powers with NEWS readers.

"I see pictures in my mind," the aged medium told a NEWS reporter. "I get strong vibrations about things and I welcome people to write me with their questions.

"I have prayed for papers like The NEWS to contact me. I want word about my gifts to get out so people will know how to reach me."

Here are Clintie's mind-boggling predictions for the next 10 years:

● President George Bush will be a powerful President who will serve a second term. After he leaves office, Vice President Dan Quayle will be next in the White House.

● After years of drought in the early 1990s, nature will smile on America. We'll have a decade of abundant food supplies and mild weather — with few natural disasters.

● A major breakthrough in the war against drugs will finally bring the drug problem under control by 1992.

● The world can look forward to a decade of peace with a new era of friendly cooperation between the super powers. Major wars will be unheard of in the 1990s.

● The 1990s will bring a period of historic prosperity for our nation. Fears about the economy will disappear as the country reverses the deficit and begins to dominate world markets once again.

● There will be a major earthquake in California in the fall of 1996, but fortunately few lives will be lost.

● A new wave of concern for our fellow man will make Americans among the most generous people on Earth. Problems with extreme poverty and homelessness will begin to disappear by the end of the decade.

● Great advances in medicine will wipe out cancer and heart disease and increase the average life span of Americans by a whopping 15 years.

Sicko killer strangles mom with bicycle chain

"God Bless You, Mother, Amen," wrote sadistic son Stephen Davis after he strangled her with a bicycle chain, slit her throat and dunked her in a tub filled with water.

As a jury was being selected in Long Island, N.Y., Davis stood up and shouted, later pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Davis, 24, said he was angry with his invalid mother, Annie Stone, 52, because she accidentally told one of his girlfriends about another one over the phone.

After writing the blessing,

Somebody's trying to kill me!

. . . and cops say they know who it is — his wife and kids

By JACK ALEXANDER

Easygoing Ed Rockwell wasn't the least bit suspicious when someone cut the brake line on his car before it crashed into a tree.

When he got sick to his stomach and vomited after eating salad at the dinner table, mild-mannered Ed had no idea it was laced with poison.

And when he was bashed on the head with a baseball bat, Ed shrugged it off as an accident.

But when his skull was crushed in a second attack with the same baseball bat, it dawned on the quiet family man — someone was out to kill him.

Cops say the "someone" was his wife, Sharon, their three teenage sons and two youths who often stayed in the Rockwell home.

"The family looked at his $40,000 life insurance policy and figured he was worth more dead than alive," said Oxford, Mich., Police Detective Ron Crichton. "But more than that, they just didn't like him."

Cops say the man's family planned to knock him out with the baseball bat, place him in a bathtub and toss an electric radio into the water to make his death look like accidental electrocution.

The baseball bat attack was the first step in the treacherous murder plot. Rockwell, 37, was lying on a couch watching TV when it happened.

His son Hal, 18, stood by as a friend, Mario Stitt, 15, bopped Rockwell on the head, Crichton said. Only grazed by the blow, Rockwell asked them "what was going on" and they said, "Stitt was fooling around with the bat and it slipped," according to testimony at a preliminary hearing.

Cops said another friend of Hal, Jeffrey Greene, sneaked up on Rockwell two hours later and smashed his skull in with the same bat. Rockwell was hospitalized with a fractured skull.

"Apparently the boys just 'chickened out' when it came to killing," said Det. Crichton. "I don't know what was worse, their incompetence or their persistence."

Sharon Rockwell has denied there were any plots to kill her husband. She was charged with conspiracy with intent to commit murder.

Hal Rockwell, Greene and Stitt were charged with conspiracy and assault with intent to commit murder. Cops may file juvenile charges of conspiracy against Rockwell's two younger sons, ages 13 and 14.

LUCKY Ed Rockwell, who survived several attempts on his life, gestures as he testifies in the case in court.

Busty gal's big bra blows up her washing machine!

Busty Inger Hallin blew up her washing machine with her 48DD bra!

The enormous undergarment got twisted around the washing machine's agitator, which inhibited the action of the drum. The washer strained to continue the cycle but couldn't.

And then the machine's motor blew.

"It made an awful buzzing noise and then — boom — it exploded like a bomb," Miss Hallin, 35, told reporters in Orebro, Sweden.

"There was a terrible smell, like wires were burning. All the water in the washer leaked out on the floor."

Miss Hallin shut off power to the smoking machine at the fuse box and called the fire department for help.

When firemen arrived, they

By HAROLD LACKER

poked around inside the washer and pulled out the queen-sized black bra.

"I've never been so embarrassed in my life," said Miss Hallin. "The fireman was an older man and he turned red as could be.

"I said: 'Oh my goodness. Is that the cause of all this trouble?'

"And he said: 'Well you've got to admit, lady, that this is one big brassiere.' "

Miss Hallin's washer was less than six months old but the damage to it was extensive.

An appliance repairman estimated that it would cost almost $600 to fix it so he advised her to get a new one.

"He also warned me about the danger of washing my bras in the machine," said Miss Hallin.

"After this I wouldn't dare take the chance. I'll wash them by hand."

Monster admits 21 murders but he will never be punished

FIENDISH Thierry Paulin may have killed as many as 41 widows, police say. They call him the Phantom of Paris.

By JOE BERGER

Monster murderer Thierry Paulin has admitted killing 21 helpless old ladies during a three-year reign of terror, cops say. But the so-called Phantom of Paris may never go to trial — because he's dying of AIDS!

"It looks like God will punish this madman before the French courts ever get their chance," said Paris police detective Paul Laurent.

"In a way, we feel cheated."

The people of Paris poured into the streets to celebrate last year when lawmen announced they'd charged the grinning, gay playboy with a series of torture murders that had rocked their city to its core.

All told, the sicko killer had invaded the homes of 41 defenseless widows and snuffed out their lives.

Police said Paulin — a snickering, 24-year-old drug addict — coldly confessed to 21 of the slayings.

"He told us he followed his victims home and pushed them into their apartments," said police spokesman Marie-Laurence Roy.

"There he smothered, strangled and stabbed them to death after torturing them to reveal where they kept their money."

Investigators said one pitiful widow suffered an agonizing death after the Phantom of Paris forced her to drink bleach when she refused to reveal where her savings were hidden.

"I killed to live," the heartless homosexual told cops.

"Murder was my job. Like others drive buses or trains, I killed old ladies."

Now, the perverted Paulin seems destined to suffer an agonizing death of his own.

"He is in the last, terrible stages of AIDS, with at most a few weeks to live," a police spokesman said.

. . . He's dying of AIDS!

Train robber gets $15 and a Visa card from engineer

A fleet-footed thief jumped on a moving train and robbed the engineer of $15 cash and a Visa card before he hopped off the locomotive and disappeared!

"It's the first train robbery in Eastern Kentucky that I know of," said Dan Smoot, a Kentucky State Police trooper. The strange drama took place after CSX Transportation engineer Jerry Le VanHoose stopped his train near a coal company and tried to couple the locomotive to a coal hopper.

Somebody jumped into the cab, knocked VanHoose down, took his Visa card and cash out of his pocket and disappeared.

The engineer was not seriously injured in the incident, which happened so fast that he didn't even see the assailant.

"I'm not certain this qualifies as a train robbery or just a robbery on a train," said Trooper Smoot.

"Whatever it is, it's certainly not common," said the Boy left on school bus all night

A bus driver was fired for accidentally leaving a handicapped boy in a parked school bus all night in sub-freezing weather.

The 9-year-old youngster, who has trouble communicating, was reported in good condition despite his all-night ordeal.

School officials said the unidentified boy and others were taken to Avon-Lenox School in afternoon. Usually, the boy spends week nights at the school's Residential Training Center and goes home on weekends. But instead of taking him to the center after school, bus driver Belinda Rounds, 27, apparently unloaded other kids there and drove the bus back to the garage compound.

The shivering youngster was found the next morning

Child drowns in bucket of water

A toddler drowned when she apparently fell head first into a cleaning bucket full of soapy water, cops said.

The 15-month-old little girl, Sharon Dunn, was staying at the Bronx, N.Y., home of her aunt, Janrowwa Dunn, when the horrible accident occurred.

The aunt told police she had put the child on a living room couch while she went out for a walk, and found her head first in the five-gallon bucket when she returned. The bucket was filled with soapy water for cleaning.

Family members tried to revive the girl, but she died at a

Water buffalo eats wife's jewelry — hubby gets it back 12 years later!

FARMER Sachen Singh (left) waited 12 long years for his water buffalo to die a natural death before he could recover his wife's gold jewelry from the animal's stomach.

Animal's death brings lo-o-ong wait to an end!

By KEN DILLON

An Indian farmer waited 12 mind-blowing years for a water buffalo to die a natural death so he could slice it open and recover $2,000 worth of jewelry that the beast gobbled up in 1977!

Incredibly, the gold necklace, bracelet and diamond ring were still in the animal's stomach, slightly damaged by gastric juices, but still intact.

"It was definitely worth the wait," farmer Sachen Singh told newsmen in Chandigarh, India. "I could have gotten the jewelry out much sooner, of course, but I couldn't bring myself to kill the animal for so trivial a thing.

"This never would have happened if my wife had been more careful. She knows water buffaloes are attracted to shiny objects. But she left her jewelry on a fence post where he could get to it.

"I'll never forget the look on her face when she told me what happened. She wanted me to do something to get the jewelry back right away.

"I told her the only thing we could do was wait until he died."

Veterinarians confirmed that water buffaloes have stomachs with two parts, the second of which traps indigestable items like stones and metal to keep them from damaging the intestines.

They weren't at all surprised to hear that the gold jewelry was still trapped after 12 years. They did raise their eyebrows when they learned that farmer Singh waited that long to get it out.

"I could have removed the jewelry surgically with very little risk to the animal," said one vet.

Singh said: "I don't believe in rushing anything. And you must admit that in the end, everything came out all right."

Air travelers terrified when . . .

UFO BUZZES JET!

By DICK DONOVAN

Passengers aboard a high-flying jet were hurled from their seats just like rag dolls when their plane briefly plunged several hundred feet — after a terrifying encounter with a UFO!

The swift British TriStar jet fell like a rock before its pilot Bob Taylor was able to regain control of it.

The bloodcurdling plunge came a split second after the jet carrying 140 passengers was buzzed by a blazing UFO that streaked out of the night sky like a comet.

The alien encounter took place as the TriStar flew 30,000 feet above the Mediterranean isle of Sardinia on a flight from Malta to London. Passenger Susie Walton witnessed the UFO fly-by.

"I glanced out the window and saw what appeared to look like a glistening, multicolored cloud that left a vapor trail behind it," 25-year-old Susie recalled. "Then all of a sudden it vanished and our plane plunged earthward.

"I thought it was the end. It was terrifying. Some passengers started praying, and I grabbed the man sitting next to me. I was sure we were going to crash."

Veteran pilot had the huge jetliner under control and climbing back to its assigned altitude.

At least a dozen other passengers saw the UFO as it swooped silently past the jet less than 100 yards away.

"It was glowing red and green and yellow . . . like a huge oblong cloud," passenger Rita Bathgate said. "It looked like what I imagine the American Space Shuttle to look like when it plunges into the atmosphere from outer space."

The pilot also discounted the possibility that the mystery invader was another earth-based aircraft.

"It was traveling too fast to have been another plane as we know them," he declared.

"We probably will never know what it was. But it most certainly wasn't a plane. I've

Drug guru Timothy Leary's shocking confession:

CARY GRANT TURNED ME ON TO LSD!

MAVERICK shrink Dr. Timothy Leary boogies the night away at a New York disco. He became famous for his use of LSD.

REAL PIONEER in the use of LSD was Cary Grant, according to Timothy Leary.

Yet another shocker from the new book Cary Grant: The Lonely Heart by Charles Higham and Roy Moseley: LSD guru Timothy Leary says in the book that he never got Cary involved with the drug. Instead, it was Cary's use of the drug as therapy that got Tim involved.

"The joke of all this is that, in psychedelic experiences," says Dr. Tim.

"I was a psychologist from Harvard when I heard about Cary Grant getting into LSD. That struck me very much.

Rocker & child bride can't find church to marry them

Rolling Stone Bill Wyman, 52, and his baby bride-to-be Mandy Smith, who at 19 is young enough to be his granddaughter, are having a tough time finding a church to get married in.

The problem is:

Bill is divorced and Mandy is Catholic. Already, five Catholic churches have turned them down.

"I want Mandy to have the best wedding in the world," said old Bill. "She is a young girl and if she wants to marry in a church, then so be it.

"She is very upset that she hasn't been able to find someone to marry us yet. However, we're confident that something will come up soon."

The odd couple shocked the world when they first began romancing six years ago.

At that time, Mandy was 13 and Bill was a feisty 46 year old. Now that Mandy is old enough, Bill's decided to make an honest teen of her.

His band-mate Mick Jagger finds nothing wrong with the 33-year age difference.

"Love has no boundaries, and I wish them every happiness for their future together," says Mick.

By the way, Bill's son reportedly will be best man. He's just nine years older than his stepmom-to-be. — London Daily Mirror, London Sun and The Treatonian.

very much against the use of drugs before that. I had even written books on the subject.

"I knew that truth drugs were being used by the CIA and the KGB, and that LSD was being used in chemical warfare, so I was much against it. Cary changed my views. He converted me."

Cary began his treatments with LSD during the time he made the 1958 flick Houseboat with Sophia Loren. His life was filled with emotional turmoil. He turned to LSD for help and underwent treatment encouraged by his wife actress Betsy Drake.

Dr. Tim says Cary had been working with LSD for five years before he got involved with the drug.

So maybe Cary should be remembered as a pioneer in the use of psychedelic drugs instead of a silver screen great. — New York Daily News.

Ex-Beatle Ringo Starr was about to bite into his fancy-schmancy French-style chopped liver at a celeb-studded birthday bash for Elton John, when he spied an ugly black roach on his plate.

Poor Elton was so embarrassed he rushed over to the table to apologize.

"A young woman sitting at Ringo's table brought me the plate with the pate de fois gras (chopped goose liver)," said a bigwig in charge of the bash.

"I saw the little creature and realized at once that it had fallen onto the plate from the massive bouquets hung above the table."

Fortunately, the bug didn't spoil the ex-Beatle's fun at the party.

Ringo and his wife celebrated Elton's 42nd year along with guests like rocker Tina Turner and actress Jane Seymour. In addition to the chopped liver, guests gorged on goodies like oysters, caviar, smoked salmon, lobster, roast beef, lamb and duck — all without roaches.

"The food was so good, I suppose the beetle couldn't resist helping itself," chuckled Ringo. — London People.

A Geneva housewife accidentally discovers how to lose weight without dieting

A simple "trick" helped her to lose 6 pounds a week

You too, she says, can easily succeed without medication or exercise.

GENEVA – The secret for losing weight quickly, while still eating as usual without dieting, has just been accidentally discovered by a housewife from Geneva (Switzerland).

There is no need to take medicines, or exercise. You can do it at home. You can even eat out in restaurants, if necessary. There are no difficulties involved, whatsoever.

There are hundreds of diets and methods for losing weight. But the present one is really unique.

Most people who have lost weight have followed a diet, some other method, or taken medicines. It is very rare to find people who have shed their excess pounds while still eating as usual, without dieting, exercising, or using some gadget or other. It is also very rare to find people who lose 6 pounds a week "on order". The housewife who accidentally discovered this secret is Danielle Chevalier, from Geneva.

A close friend of Danielle Chevalier explains: "I have always known her as being "a little plump", and I was aware that she wanted to lose weight. She used to say that it was for health reasons; but, in fact, it was above all to please her husband. When she said that she had discovered a means of losing weight without dieting, we all laughed and thought that she had gone mad. Today, we no longer laugh. She has shed all her excess pounds... and she eats, and eats! Cakes, chocolates, noodles, cold meats, gravies: everything that is fattening... in the quantities she wishes, without restrictions whatsoever.

What is the secret for losing weight discovered by this Geneva housewife?

This is my interview with Danielle Chevalier:

QUESTION: Tell me, Mrs Chevalier, how did it all happen?

ANSWER: I think I was a typical case - like many women today. I like eating and I put on weight easily. Much too easily. My problem: I wanted to be very slim. First, because I want to be healthy, and it is healthier to be slim; then because one looks nicer and more attractive when one is slim.

I believe I have tried all diets. Sometimes, after three weeks of dieting, of eating dry rusks, and boiled eggs, especially, I lost at most 4 pounds. But as soon as I started eating normally again, I had turned red and irritable. I had no taste for anything. I have also tried to take appetite suppressors under medical supervision. I hardly lost weight then, and as soon as I stopped, I immediately put on again the few pounds I had lost.

One Thursday morning I then read in a book on homeopathy a short sentence written by a Doctor. He assured the reader that if one followed the advice in very simple ones, not only could one eat as much as one wanted without putting on weight, but one could also shed one's excess pounds.

This seemed too good to be true, especially since there were no medicines to be taken! I thought it was really too simple.

QUESTION: Yet you followed this advice?

ANSWER: Not immediately. I could not believe in it. But later, once I realized that all the methods I tried either stopped me from eating the foods I liked, or were ineffective, I told myself "Why not try the Doctor's "trick", it's easy and... one never knows..."

QUESTION: And you started losing weight?

ANSWER: The first few days, I did not notice anything. It is only on the morning of the fifth day that I saw some result. I had a pair of slacks that I had been unable to wear for a long time, since they were too tight. On that day, I managed to put them on easily. I shall never forget that morning. Although I still dared not believe it, I went mad with joy. It is then that I told a few close friends "I believe that I have discovered a "trick" for losing weight while eating as well, without dieting.

QUESTION: And what did they say?

ANSWER: They all laughed. Obviously, they did not believe me. I even got the impression that they thought I had lost my common sense.

QUESTION: What happened then?

ANSWER: I kept on following this Doctor's "advice"... and I kept on losing weight. 20 pounds altogether. And as you see, now I am slim. When my friends saw that I was shedding my excess pounds one by one, they could not believe it. My life has completely changed. I can wear again clothes which I no longer dared to. My husband finds me attractive. My children are proud of their new mum. And I feel much better. It is a different life altogether.

QUESTION: Can this "trick" also work for other people?

ANSWER: Yes, because some who also needed to lose weight tried it. Like me, they lost between 4 to 7 pounds a week. Today, they are slim... even the one who was fat as a child. For her it has been a real "miracle".

QUESTION: So it really works. I was told that you were prepared now to reveal your "discovery" to everybody?

ANSWER: I do not know if I shall reveal it to everybody, but I have explained everything in my "report".

QUESTION: What can you tell me about this report?

ANSWER: Its title is "my "trick" for losing weight without dieting". Clearly, it contains the disclosure of my "trick", about which I can already give you the following details:

- It does not cost anything. There is nothing special to buy.
- You can use it immediately: it requires no special knowledge.
- There is no need to exercise, nor take medicines or drugs.
- It is a pleasant and natural method, which is excellent for health.
- It helps you to digest your food better (and this is probably why it helps to lose weight).
- You can use it at home or in a restaurant, even if you travel abroad.
- Even a child could use it: there are no difficulties involved whatsoever.
- It helps you to lose up to 5 to 7 pounds a week. Even if you eat noodles, gravies, cakes, sweets, everything you like. There are absolutely no restrictions. Even wine and alcohol are allowed.

As I already told you, before I discovered my "trick", I had tried almost all diets, all methods, and all the fashionable pills to lose weight: special teas, capsules of grapefruit, lemon-pods, pineapple... yet, I believe I have really tried everything, since losing weight was for me an obsession.

All these ways have taught me, not only what does not work, but also what one should know, for instance about some foods which - as I noticed myself - act as true medicines, without having their disadvantages. I went three foods to become known.

QUESTION: You speak about them in your report?

ANSWER: Yes, because some of the diets I have followed have taught me a lot about the influence of certain foods on one's health. I also mention other things I have successfully tried myself. I believe that my experience can be useful to many people who need to lose your report cost?

ANSWER: If I said it for the price it is really worth, few people would be able to buy it. An effective method for losing weight without dieting is priceless. I do not exaggerate when I say that, to my knowledge, there is probably no other such system that helps to lose weight while still eating and drinking as usual. Personally, I would have paid quite happily $5,000 for it, and even than it more – but I have able to find it... And I believe many women would willingly pay this price.

Try Danielle Chevalier's "discovery" entirely at our risk

... and decide only AFTER shedding your excess pounds whether you want to keep her report.

This is our proposition:

If you do not lose at least 4 pounds per week or if, for some reason, you are not enthusiastic about this report, return it within 90 days and I will send you back a check for $15.90 within 8 days after receiving your packet.

In other words, either you lose at least 4 pounds a week, and you have reached your ideal weight, or I reimburse the price you will have paid for the report. There are no conditions attached. And there will be no questions asked. This is a formal written obligation.

No risk for you

You can thus try this, if only out of curiosity, since you do not run the risk of losing anything, not even a cent.

How dare we make such an offer?

- Because I am convinced that once you will have shed your excess pounds, you will want to keep Danielle Chevalier's report.
- Because I have met Danielle Chevalier's friends: I have seen on photos how they were before, and I have been able to observe that they had really lost weight.
- Because I have let two of my friends try this "secret". Both of them lost 7 pounds the very first week.
- Because there is no reason why something that works for others should not work for you. At any rate, I accept this risk.

Read this only if you have decided not to try this method:

1 This method is entirely at my risks. If you do not lose at least 4 pounds a week, you will want to send you back a check for $15.90 within 8 days after receiving your packet. There are no conditions involved. No questions will be asked.

2 You eat everything you want, in whatever quantities. You need not change anything in your meals.

3 It will be up to you and no-one else to decide whether to keep the report or not. You may even return it after having shed your excess weight. But I do not believe you will do this.

IMPORTANT

On account of the special nature of this offer, which is made entirely at my risk, I can only guarantee it for 30 days.

Cut out the attached COUPON and send it not later than today, so as not to forget it.

A simple trick makes her lose 6 pounds a week "on order". She says that you can do it as well. There are no difficulties involved, and you need not exercise, nor take medicines.

Free surprise gift

If you send the attached COUPON within 5 days, you will receive a small but interesting surprise gift. You will be able to keep the gift, even if you return this method and ask to be reimbursed.

GUARANTEE

If you do not shed your excess pounds and do not retrain slim afterwards, return Danielle Chevalier's method within 3 months. I personally promise that you will then be reimbursed and receive a check for $15.90. This check will be sent to you within 8 days after receiving your method. There are no conditions involved. NUTTY AFRICANS VOW TO LAUNCH ELEPHANT INTO SPACE

ARTIST'S conception shows interior of the proposed space capsule in which an elephant will be launched into orbit.

By DUNCAN KRAFT

A tiny West African nation has announced an ambitious plan to launch a full-grown elephant into outer space by the year 2000!

"We are determined to enter the space age before the century is over," General Jerome Lassey of the Gabon Air Force told newsmen in Libreville.

"We would like to put a man in space but feel that it is more prudent to begin with an elephant, which is an animal symbolic of Africa. Our rocket and capsule will have to be quite large, and are already in conceptual stages.

"But if the launch is successful, we could use the same design to send a whole team of astronauts into space at a later date."

Space and rocket experts were shocked to hear of the tiny African nation's space intentions, especially since the Gabon Air Force currently employs only 150 men.

General Lassey countered by saying that he and his fellow countrymen will spare no expense to see that their space program succeeds.

The Air Force has already pumped millions into the effort. And General Lassey says a budget of a billion or more is not out of the question.

"Launching an elephant into space would be quite a feather in our cap," said the general. "It would be the largest animal by far to go into orbit. And if it survived splashdown, we'd have solid proof that our technology is first class."

The single hitch in the country's plan could be the ire of animal rights groups.

There has been no comment yet from Greenpeace.

But Nils Andren of the Swedish watchdog group Animal Now has already lodged an official protest — and is calling on all animal lovers worldwide to help put a stop to the program.

"There is no way that an elephant could survive being blasted into space, and its death would be a horrible one," said Andren.

"I think the powers that be in Gabon should think about sending this General Lassey into space — preferably without a space suit."

Animal rights group outraged over natives' shocking plan!

Man dies after high pressure stream from water hose slits throat!

A jet of water from a high pressure hose slit a worker's throat, killing him instantly, say cops.

Erhard Dietz, 44, was pressure cleaning the sidewalk at a factory in Munich, West Germany, when he slipped and lost control of the hose.

According to witnesses, Dietz ducked when the hose shot over his head. But it swung back — directing a powerful jet of water at his throat.

"Everyone around us could do anything but watch," Helmut Kohler, a factory employee, told newsmen in Munich. "The hose was swinging back and forth from the pressure of the water. Erhard moving too fast. It swung right by his head and then blood went everywhere.

"Erhard clutched at his throat and hit the pavement — boom! — just that quick.

"Somebody turned off the compressor that was hooked to the hose but it was too late. By the time I got to Erhard, he was already dead."

Police ruled out any possibility of foul play in the inci-

TOP SCIENTIST FINDS PROOF OF TIME TRAVEL!

ASTONISHING evidence that Dr. Charles Frese found in 2,000-year-old time capsule includes a toaster, digital clock radio and newspaper dated 2023.

Men from our future went back 2,000 years!

By CARL FORD

A top scientist claims to have found a 2,000-year-old time capsule that contains a toaster, clock radio and newspaper dated Aug. 22, 2023 A.D.!

And Dr. Charles Frese, the Dutch archaeologist, is convinced that the capsule was planted in the ruins of an East Indian temple by men who traveled back in time from our own future.

"There is no other explanation for it," Dr. Frese told newsmen in Deventer, Holland. "Analysis of the metal capsule indicates that it is at least 2,000 years old. But the contents are items that weren't even invented until the 20th century.

"The newspaper itself is even more puzzling. According to the date, it won't be printed for another 34 years. I still have quite a bit of research to conduct.

"But it certainly looks as if the capsule and its contents were planted by time travelers from the 21st century." Dr. Frese claims to have found the brass, football-shaped capsule in the ruins of a 2,000-year-old temple north of Delhi, India, on March 28.

He initially thought that he had stumbled on some sort of religious icon.

"So you can imagine the kind of shock and surprise I felt upon opening the capsule to find a newspaper, a toaster and a clock radio," said Dr. Frese. "At first I thought it was some kind of joke.

"But laboratory tests conclusively proved that both the capsule and its contents are 2,000 years old or older."

The clock radio is similar to ones that are widely available today but its parts are so worn with age that it doesn't work, said the scientist.

The toaster is in similar condition, he added. But the newspaper, which is printed in Japanese, is still legible and speaks of events that are yet to come.

"There is really nothing particularly sensational in the paper, which reports news events that apparently are going to happen in Tokyo in August 2023," said Dr. Frese.

"But the implications of this time capsule are staggering," he said.

OLD FLAME'S REVENGE:

She sets herself on fire, then grabs her boyfriend in a death hug!

By LAUREL BOWIE

A lovesick lady tortured by a romance gone wrong set herself ablaze, then grabbed her former beau in a fiery embrace — and held the guy so tight he burned to death along with her!

"This is a very bizarre case, but we have listed it as a murder-suicide," Police Investigator Inder Dube told reporters in Madras, India.

"Witnesses tell us it was very obvious that the young woman wanted to die but the young man did not. They say she had such a firm hold on him he just couldn't get away."

The spine-chilling story began a week earlier when heartbroken maid Manju Parvathi, 23, learned her longtime lover Tushar Sen was planning to marry another woman.

"Poor Manju wept for days," a friend recalled. "She said she could never be happy again if she lost Tushar.

"At first she was just sad — very, very sad. And then she started getting angry.

"She said Tushar had treated her unfairly and she wasn't going to let him get away with abandoning her."

Manju's misery exploded in horror one evening when the love-starved lady invited Tushar, 27, to a cafe in a last-ditch effort to rekindle their romance.

"They argued inside the restaurant and then they went out back to the alley," recalled cafe owner Arun Viswanath. "They were making so much noise I went to the door to watch.

"The young woman must have stashed a can of gasoline out there, because suddenly she grabbed it and drenched herself.

"In an instant she struck a match and set herself ablaze. Before the young man could react, she threw her arms around him and embraced him tight, drawing him into the raging fire."

Terrified Tushar struggled and screamed, Viswanath said, but hopping-mad Manju refused to let him go.

"It was the most horrifying thing one will ever see," said the shook-up owner. "But the lady was very calm and purposeful through it all.

"It was very clear that she wanted to die — and she was determined to take her lover to the grave with her."

Fishing boat crew rescues shipwrecked beauty at sea

The crew of a fishing boat thought they had caught a real mermaid — after all, she had long, beautiful blonde hair and flippers.

But their surprising catch turned out to be a 22-year-old Australian woman who had survived for three days in shark-infested waters after her sailboat capsized.

Michelle Hamilton was finally rescued by Skipper Baudelio Pactao and his crew after her mother had already given her up for dead and held a memorial service.

Michelle was vacationing with her mom on the Philippine island of Boracay when her sailboat was swept out to sea.

Her boat capsized and Michelle clung to the underside as she drifted more than 80 miles.

"The first thing I did when the boat went over was to grab my flippers, but everything else just floated away," she said.

Twice she saw the fins of sharks circling only about 20 yards away, but miraculously the sharks didn't attack.

"I am not religious but someone kept saying to me my time was not up," Michelle recalled. "Then I awoke to find these fishermen asking me if I was a mermaid because I had my flippers on."

Juror took cocaine to court, say cops

A 23-year-old juror was arrested for possession of cocaine when he tried to carry the drug into court, say cops.

Coins in Gary Lewis' pockets set off a metal detector as he entered the Clarence M. Mitchell Jr. Courthouse in Baltimore. A subsequent search by a sheriff's deputy allegedly turned up a leather pouch stuffed with 30 bags of cocaine.

Lewis was charged with possession of cocaine and possession with intent to distribute, cops said. Ironically, the young man had been on a jury in a drug-related trial.

JUDGE TELLS MOM OF 3: YOUR BOYFRIEND CAN'T SLEEP OVER!

ANGRY Carla Parrillo may take her fight all the way to the Supreme Court.

By SUSAN JIMISON

Divorced mom Carla Parrillo says she can't have a normal life because a judge has forbidden her to make love in her own home whenever her three children are there.

Family Court Judge William Goldberg ruled that the pretty divorcee would face a fine and a possible jail term if she breaks the bedroom ban. And when she appealed to a higher state court the ruling was upheld, much to Mrs. Parrillo's dismay.

"What am I supposed to do — sleep alone for the rest of my life because I'm divorced?" asked the angry brunette, 33, from Johnston, R.I.

"It's absolutely overwhelming.

"My rights are being denied — my life is on hold.

"My kids are well cared for, they're clean, they're not abused. I don't smoke, I don't drink, I don't do drugs. I'm not hurting my children. My kids love me and there's nothing wrong with our lives." Mrs. Parrillo's love life came under court scrutiny in 1986 when her ex-husband Justin cut back on child support payments claiming he was upset that his former wife was entertaining her boyfriend overnight.

Mrs. Parrillo went to court to force a resumption in the payments, but instead Judge Goldberg barred her from allowing any man to sleep over while her children — now 15, 13 and 10 — were there.

The judge admitted Mrs. Parrillo was "taking good care" of the kids, but he said "the court must infer" that having her male friend sleep over "is not conducive to the welfare of the children" psychologically.

"That's absurd," fumed Mrs. Parrillo.

"The court is over-focusing on the bedroom. I don't take my kids to bed with me. Anything you see in my house you could watch on TV seven nights a week. My kids are not watching any kinds of sexual acts."

Mrs. Parrillo is considering appealing the court ruling before the United States Supreme Court.

Crooks break in and rob safe — at prison

A gang of safecrackers has discovered it can pick up some easy loot — by breaking into prison.

Thieves recently robbed the safe at Mogelkaer State Prison in Copenhagen, Denmark, for the second time, making off with about $11,000 earmarked for prisoners' wages.

Officials said the brazen burglars broke into the prison compound, then climbed through a window to get into the office and to the safe.

"I suppose we should have installed an anti-theft device after the first break-in, but we didn't think they'd come back," said Flemming Lerche, deputy director of the prison.

Boss fires woman for grieving after her child is killed

Folks were outraged when a heartbroken mom lost her daughter in a hit-and-run accident and lost her job — because her boss felt her grieving would interfere with her work.

Linda Martin, 38, was fired from her full-time job at a Winnipeg, Canada, hotel after her 7-year-old daughter's death.

She said her boss told her he didn't think she could work a full shift while grieving.

"The way this gentleman let her go — I can't believe people would have a heart like that," said Concordia Hospital chaplain Jacob Krause, who performed the memorial service for the little girl.

Krause said his heart was "torn out" when he read in a newspaper Mrs. Martin had been fired. "It's very distressing. People are absolutely angry."

Kid stops his parents' fight — with a brick

A fed up 9-year-old boy broke up an argument between his parents by bashing his dad on the head with a brick.

The 32-year-old father suffered swollen lips and a cut that required 16 stitches, said Sheriff Ron Tussing in Firth, Nebr.

Cops said the boy's mom grabbed a rifle and threatened her husband during the hassle and the two scuffled over the gun.

That's when the boy grabbed the brick and bopped his dad. Then he called police and told them his dad was hurt.

POSSESSED BY THE DEVIL!

DR. Jeannie McCance battles with Satan for the sanity of her patients.

By SUSAN JIMISON

Psychiatrist Jeannie McCance has peered deep into the minds of her mentally ill patients — and found the Devil himself lurking there!

The Tulsa, Okla., doctor says huge numbers of people who suffer from multiple personality disorders and other psychiatric problems were abused by Satanic cults when they were children.

Now, she says, they're possessed by demons and the battle for their sanity has become a war between Good and Evil.

"I believe in demons and the power of Satan," said Dr. McCance, 32, who practices at the City of Faith Hospital in Tulsa. "I believe Satan is on a rampage and he's present in the majority of mental patients.

"These patients tell of child abuse in which they participated in Satanic cult rituals. Parents or a neighbor or a baby-sitter made these children witness murders and mutilations and then blamed the children for it. It was ceremonial stuff — like dipping the children in blood to baptise them or making them drink blood."

Dr. McCance believes that the problem is widespread, but people don't admit it because they don't want to acknowledge that Satanism is so powerful. They are afraid, she thinks, so they ignore the problem and therefore help the cause of Satan.

Her horrifying theories are the result of years of experience as a therapist. They began with one particular patient who underwent hypnosis many months after beginning treatment and described nightmare experiences at the hands of Satanists to a shocked Dr. McCance.

The woman revealed memories and hallucinations of hooded people, black candles, altars and violent acts.

"After that I had 10 other patients over the next few years who described almost exactly the same experiences," Dr. McCance said.

"There's a large Satanic underground. We can't ignore it."

Twin heroes save drowning mom

GRATEFUL Joan Edwards owes her life to heroic twin brothers Gerald, left, and

By DICK DONOVAN

Two beer-bellied cowards ignored a drowning mom's screams for help as they stood only yards away — watching the doomed woman's car sink in the freezing waters of a river!

But the swift and heroic action of twin brothers James and Gerald Mansell snatched 39-year-old Joan Edwards from what almost became her watery grave in Canada's Pitt River.

"If those two young men hadn't done what they did when they did it, that poor woman would be dead now," Mounted Police Cpl. Jim McVey said.

"The car was almost completely under the water when the Mansell boys got there.

"And there were those two guys standing on the bridge just a few yards away and not lifting a finger to help a drowning woman," the veteran Mountie said scornfully.

Cpl. McVey said Mrs. Edwards was driving to her job in Vancouver when her car skidded on a one-lane wooden bridge spanning the river.

"It was about 4:45 a.m., and my brother and I were driving to work when we saw some cars stopped on the bridge," 25-year-old Gerald recalled. "Some guy walked over and I asked him what had happened.

"He said someone had driven off the bridge and I asked if anyone had called for help. He said no and I jumped out and James called the police on bridge and there were two guys standing there looking down at the car. They were big, beer-belly types. I could hear a woman screaming from down below, but they weren't doing a thing.

"I yelled, 'Well, what the heck are you just standing there for?' and I dived into the water."

Woman refused to cash her paychecks — for 30 years!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Thrifty spinster Billie Hurst worked as a college librarian for 30 years, but never bothered to cash her paychecks — totaling $108,125.

The old woman's checks might still be uncashed if she hadn't been forced into a retirement home when her rundown house in Springfield, Missouri, was torn down for safety reasons.

"She simply refused to cash a paycheck," said her cousin, Frances Gleghorn, who was appointed a guardian for Miss Hurst, 72.

"We don't know how she made ends meet all those years and she isn't inclined to talk about it," said Mrs. Gleghorn. "She is a very, very private lady."

Needing money for the retirement home, Mrs. Gleghorn searched her cousin's ramshackle home before it was demolished. She found $20,025 in checks that were less than five years old, so the checks were re-issued by the state of Missouri since Miss Hurst had worked as a librarian at Southwest Missouri State University.

Over $100G is discovered in old gal's house!

Since the state treasurer isn't obligated to honor an uncashed check more than five years old, it took a special act of the state legislature to release the remaining $88,100.

State Treasurer Wendell Bailey remembers the kindly old librarian from his days as a student at Southwest Missouri State.

"She was a walking card file. She knew where every single book was located," said Bailey. "She was extremely devoted to the college. It was her whole life.

"By not cashing her checks I believe she thought she was helping

New York City uses owls to fight rats!

New York City is waging a full-scale battle against the hordes of rats that have invaded four city parks — and they've dubbed the effort Operation Owl Prowl.

The city has decided to use barn owls as an elite anti-rat squad and plans to encourage them to settle in the parks by building them special owl boxes for nesting.

"We're getting some recruits in the war against rats," said Henry Stern, park commissioner for the city. "The nightly labor of these owls will more than justify the modest expense of the housing we are providing."

The owl boxes will cost about $3 to $7 apiece,

Soviets lose radio contact with Mars probe

Combined Wire Services

MOSCOW — Officials worked around-the-clock Wednesday to restore contact with a space probe circling Mars.

A commission has been formed to determine the cause of the failure of Phobos II and present its conclusions in a week, said Sergei Zavgorodny, an official at Glavkosmos, the Soviet space agency.

STORIES about the Soviet probe's failure have appeared in newspapers around the world.

to Mars. The planet's inhabitants obviously want us to stay out of their affairs.

"I don't want to accuse anybody of anything at this point. But it is conceivable that the Martians destroyed the Phobos probe themselves."

Dr. Borisov refused to say how the Soviets plan to go about contacting the Martians but he acknowledged that they are already at work on the task.

Dr. Jean Leydel, the French radio astronomer, is one of a dozen scientists worldwide who have offered to assist the Soviets in the effort.

BIZARRE message carved on Mars' surface reads "Stay Away," as shown in this artist's conception. "Phobos II," a Soviet space probe, mysteriously quit working after beaming a photo of the apparent warning to Earth.

Murderer Ted Bundy's trial & execution cost a whopping $6 million

It cost $6 million and took almost 10 years to convict and execute serial killer Ted Bundy, but at least one top official says it was worth the effort!

"I personally believe Ted Bundy was the type of person who would have killed again had he escaped or been released at some point in the future," said Florida Attorney General Bob Butterworth.

Bundy died in Florida's electric chair on January 24 for the murder of 12-year-old Kimberly Leach of Lake City, Fla. Police suspect that he killed as many as 100 women.

Suicidal AIDS patient set fire to his hospital bed

An AIDS patient died seven months after he was charged with arson for setting fire to his hospital bed in a suicide attempt.

Timothy Gerald Salrin, 28, was facing trial in Tucson, Ariz., when he died from AIDS, authorities said.

His lawyer and doctors said Salrin probably set the fire because he was suffering from AIDS-related dementia, a condition that leaves patients unaware of their actions. The fire was apparently a suicide attempt, they said.

Although he suffered serious burns in the fire and no one else in the hospital was injured, Salrin was charged with 24 counts of endangerment because 20 other patients and four nurses had to be evacuated from the ward during the fire.

He also was charged with one count of arson and with damaging his mattress.

Stress makes us gain weight

Stress is a major cause of weight gain, according to a new survey.

"Stress may trigger eating binges that translate into gained weight," said nutritionist Mary Sucholet about a survey commissioned by Weight Watchers International that showed half of all Americans gain weight from stress.

"The key is to recognize those triggers and respond in a healthier way, such as substituting different behaviors," she said.

Pilot jokes that plane's overloaded — then crashes!

A pilot joked to passengers about the plane being overloaded — shortly before it crashed in a snow-covered forest killing 24 of 25 aboard.

"We either have to drop some passengers off or defuel," the captain said over the intercom as the plane left Thunder Bay, Canada, according to the lone survivor, Rick Campbell.

A short time later the Air Ontario Fokker F28 took on more fuel at Dryden, Canada. The plane took off and crashed about a mile away.

STEAM CABINET BOILS BEAUTY LIKE AN EGG!

By DICK DONOVAN

Stunning Melissa Dickinson's birthday treat at a swank health spa became a nightmare of pain and suffering — when she was boiled like an egg in a steam cabinet!

The 22-year-old raven-haired beauty was trapped in the cabinet as the steam temperature soared to a scalding 150 degrees Fahrenheit.

By the time spa attendants heard her screams of agony and dragged her from the runaway steam cabinet, she had suffered severe burns on her legs and chest.

Melissa's terrifying brush with death came on the final day of a three-day stay at the Inglewood Health Hydro, one of England's ritziest spas where the rich and famous pay more than $200 a day to be pampered. The visit was a birthday gift from her parents.

150° nightmare leaves gal with horrible burns

"A young girl on the staff shut me in the steam box and said she would keep an eye on me," Melissa said from her home in London. "She said the steam treatment would last 10 minutes.

"I had been in there about five minutes and it was getting very hot and the temperature gauge was rising rapidly. I began to feel sick.

"I shouted for the girl and I began to panic. I couldn't get out! The pain was absolutely excruciating. I screamed and screamed before I finally passed out. The last thing I remember is seeing the temperature gauge reach 150."

When Melissa regained consciousness 15 minutes later, she had no feeling in her face, arms, chest and legs. She was wrapped in wet towels and rushed to a hospital.

"My legs look hideous and ugly with blisters," she said with tears welling up in her dark eyes. "My birthday was wrecked and this could ruin the rest of my life."

Melissa, who once cherished dreams of being a model, may have to undergo plastic surgery to hide the burn scars.

MELISSA Dickinson, right, is recovering from the injuries she received in a steam cabinet like the one above.

Mom gives son away to stranger

An unidentified mother put her 7-week-old son in the baby carriage of another woman, saying, "It's yours now" — then vanished in a crowd of passers-by!

The woman was sitting on a bench in Philadelphia's Rittenhouse Square when baby-sitter Selomit Antar walked by pushing a baby carriage.

The 21-year-old sitter told police the woman suddenly stood up, put the infant she was holding into the carriage and then hurried away.

"What are you doing?" the sitter cried out. "It's not my baby."

She said the mystery woman replied, "It's yours now."

The infant was placed in a foster home.

Dirty drug makers cause pollution

The people who make illegal drugs in secret laboratories across America are not only polluting minds, they are polluting the environment as well!

In fact, the federal government spent a staggering $8 million cleaning up the chemical wastes dumped by the makers of methamphetamine, a powerful illegal stimulant, last year alone.

The illegal drug makers Southwest and Western U.S. and dump their used ether, acetone and other toxic chemicals out the back door or down the drain.

"These chemicals are clearly another form of pollution," Jordan said.

Ninja gangs attack gays

Roving gangs of teenagers disguised as ninja warriors, the ancient Japanese assassins, have attacked and beaten 30 gays in the past month on the streets of Sydney, Australia.

"They dress as ninjas and jump down from trees," said Chris O'Reilly of the Gay and Lesbian Counseling Service in Sydney. "The attackers are always in groups."

O'Reilly said most of the victims were men, but several lesbians have also been attacked.

A 27-year-old gay who identified himself only as Mark said he was jogging in a park when he was assaulted.

"Someone shouted, 'Let's get him,'" Mark said. "There was a whole gang of youths, about eight or nine of them, about 14 or 15 years old. They just kept kicking me when I was on the ground. It seemed like forever.

"I was choking on the blood from my nose," he said. "I couldn't see because they'd kicked both my eyes. One cheekbone was fractured, kicked inwards."

U.S. flushes away too much water

Too much of America's most precious resource — water — is being flushed down the toilet, complains a member of the House of Representatives.

Each U.S. resident uses an average of more than 18,000 gallons of water a year in the home, or about 50 gallons a day.

And about 40 percent of that water is used in toilets, says Rep. Claude G. Atkins, who has proposed laws to create strict water flow standards for toilets and other household plumbing fixtures.

Hospital gives new mom the wrong baby

New mother Rosetta Kirks nursed an infant boy for three weeks before she suddenly realized that a hospital's maternity ward had given her the wrong son!

Mrs. Kirks said she noticed the mix-up when she realized the baby was smaller than he'd been in the hospital.

Genetic tests confirmed the Los Angeles woman's suspicions. She has since been reunited with her own baby, Nicolas.

The other infant is also back with his natural mother, authorities said.

16-year-old girl gives birth to a baboon's baby!

HEALTHY baboon's baby is already walking — and climbing!

By RANDY BAXTER

A 16-year-old girl has given birth to a baboon's baby. The healthy, 6-pound 2-ounce boy is covered with a thick mat of brown hair, and a doctor says there is no doubt that he is only half human — at best!

"I used to think it was genetically impossible for humans and animals to produce offspring, but not anymore," Dr. Gerald Milambo, the obstetrician who delivered the baby, told newsmen in Bukavu, Zaire.

Healthy newborn has ape-like body and the brains of a human!

"There was no indication that the mother was carrying a baboon's baby. She never said a word."

Dr. Milambo identified the mother as 16-year-old Miki Jack. He also confirmed that she now admits she was attacked by a baboon while traveling from her village south of Bukavu to visit a friend late last summer.

Not surprisingly, Miss Jack was devastated to learn that her baby, born April 2, is only half human. In a brief statement, she said that she "was almost sure" that the child she was carrying belonged to her boyfriend, Komani Lumumba, 17.

While she undergoes psychiatric counseling to help her come to terms with her baboon baby, the infant is said to be growing by leaps and bounds.

Much stronger than a human baby, the boy is already walking and climbing. And like a young baboon in the wild, he is amazingly self-assured and aggressive, even at such a tender age, Dr. Milambo said.

"It is too early to predict precisely how this child will look and behave as he grows up but we feel like he will possess many human characteristics," he continued.

"There are already indications that he is keenly intelligent — much more so than a full-blooded baboon.

"We also have good reason to believe that he has the physical apparatus necessary for talking.

"Needless to say, we will be watching the development of the child with great interest. He could teach us a great deal about human evolution.

"He might even give us some insight into the missing link."

Tot survives 15-story death plunge down garbage chute!

A 2-year-old miracle boy plunged 15 stories down a garbage chute and lived to tell about it!

Authorities in Penang, Malaysia, said Firdaus Abidin suffered nothing more serious than fright and a few bruises in the mind-blowing fall, which was broken by an enormous pile of rubbish at the bottom of the bin.

The terrified kid was rescued by his father, who noticed that his boy was missing from their 15th-floor apartment and then found the door to the garbage chute open.

Judge won't take drunk test — because it's 'rigged'

Blood-alcohol tests are "rigged" said a veteran judge, who refused to take one when traffic cops stopped him for suspected drunk driving.

"Anyone who is ever arrested should never agree to sobriety tests at any police department in Massachusetts," said Superior Court Judge Mitchell Mitchell, who has been on the bench for 22 years, was charged with drunk driving and driving on the wrong side of the road in Boston, Mass.

By refusing to take the sobriety test, Judge Mitchell's driver's license was taken away for 120 days as required by state law.

Miffed kid squeals on parents to the cops

He was angry because mom didn't want him to wear an earring

A boy who was angry because his mother wouldn't let him get his ear pierced called the police and told them where his parents had eight pounds of marijuana stashed in the house, cops said.

Police said they searched the home in Layfayette, Colo., and found 11 packages of marijuana with a street value of $15,000.

The boy's father was arrested on charges of possessing marijuana, said police. He was released on bail.

Police said they were not filing charges against the boy's mother.

"There was a dispute over the boy getting a pierced ear," said Police Lt. Brad Wiesley. "His mother was not happy about it. They just had a mother-son argument."

Afterward, the boy called police and "told us about what was in the house," Lt. Wiesley said.

Hairy folks think baldies are nerds

Hairy folks think baldies are wimps.

That's the finding of a new scientific study conducted by Dr. Tom Cash of Old Dominion University in Virginia.

"Hair loss is a pothole in the quality of men's lives," said Dr. Cash. "Overall, people consider bald subjects likely to be less self-assertive, less socially interesting, less successful in their careers and less likable."

So bad is the public image of the chrome dome, that 80 percent of bald men admit to being so self-conscious they can't stop looking in the mirror. And one quarter of hairless guys think they are ugly enough to scare away any chance for romance.

Dr. Cash says he found one ray of hope for these hopeless skinheads. If they're young they make older women sit up and take notice.

"The older woman may fancy the younger man as being more virile, while at the same time feeling that his hair loss proves that he is old enough," Dr. Cash said.

Dreams good for the head

Exciting new studies prove that dreams are vital to mental health and actually have an impact on the way we feel when awake!

Dr. Milton Kramer, a key speaker at the Arizona Conference on Sleep and Cognition, said new research indicates that dreams are a continuation of thoughts that we have during waking hours. In many instances, problems that we encounter while awake are addressed and resolved in our nightly dreams, which can improve our mood the next day.

Gal gives herself abortion — & IS CHARGED WITH MURDER!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

A 17-year-old student has been charged with murder — because she gave herself an abortion in her 16th week of pregnancy, police say!

It is the first time authorities in Greece, where the unidentified teenager lives, have ever tried to pursue such a case, according to newspaper accounts.

Police believe the girl killed her baby on purpose by drinking a highly toxic potion that passed into her bloodstream and into the fetus. The poison triggered a spontaneous abortion some hours later, they charge.

"She swallowed the mixture, waited for an hour or so, then made herself throw up," a police spokesman told reporters. "The poison was strong enough to cross the uterine barrier and reach the fetus, which was much more vulnerable because it was so tiny.

"The baby was naturally aborted about 12 hours later."

Police said the young high school student went to a medical clinic near the town of Patras and told doctors she had aborted her baby. Physicians found traces of poison in her system and questioned her about her story. After she left the clinic, they called police, news accounts said. Doctors in Greece are required to report suspected abortions. "Police went to her home and found bottles of poisonous chemicals in her room," a police spokesman is quoted as saying. "Under questioning, she admitted she'd taken the poisons, but told officers her intent was suicide, not abortion.

"We believe, however, that she was trying to get rid of the fetus. Since abortion is illegal in Greece, we have charged her with murder."

A prosecutor connected with the bizarre case admitted there is some question whether murder charges can be pressed against a minor under such circumstances. While back-alley abortionists have been prosecuted under Greek law, there is no record of anyone being charged for a self-induced abortion, he said.

Teacher washes out kid's mouth for salty language

A frustrated teacher got in trouble when she tried to teach a third-grader not to swear — by washing the kid's mouth out with soap.

Tonya Guinn, an elementary school teacher in Butler, Ga., was at her wit's end because the foul-mouthed little girl swore on the playground and in the lunch room.

Finally, the teacher asked the student, "What am I going to do with you? Will I have to wash your mouth out with soap?"

The rest room and washed her mouth out with soap. The teacher was later called on the carpet by the school superintendent when the student's mother complained.

A school board investigation report said the teacher acted without malice and made a sincere attempt to correct a student's misconduct.

The youngster had been warned earlier in the school year about her vulgar language.

New York kids to learn a new language — English

New York City high school students have a way with words — and Mayor Ed Koch says for the most part, it's the wrong way.

Mayor Koch and schools boss Richard Green are planning special programs to get rid of some of the "speech demons" that invade young New Yorkers' speech — words like "ax" instead of "ask."

Other troublemakers are the words "pitcher" for "picture," "brang" instead of "brought," and "meetcha" for "meet you."

And the mayor admits that even he used to say "liberry" when he meant the word "library."

Mayor Koch said he became concerned about the speech problems after attempting conversations with students.

Thug uses man's head for football

Three boozed up thugs brutally beat a man to death in a vicious street attack during which one of the creeps ran up and kicked the victim's head as if it were an extra point in a football game.

A judge in Winchester, England, sentenced the murderous louts aged 23, 27 and 27 to life in prison.

The killers had reportedly downed nearly a bottle of vodka and some beer before going out and attacking 32-year-old Vincent Gallagher in the street.

Revenge-bent boyfriend rams car through wall, say cops

A 26-year-old man drove his car through the wall of a tavern in an attempt to run over his ex-girlfriend who was sitting inside, say cops.

David C. McLachlan was charged with assault with attempt to murder in connection with the incident, which happened about 9 p.m. at Sully's Pub in Pawtucket, R.I.

According to cops, McLachlan was thrown out of the bar after he confronted and argued with Karen Donovan, his ex-girlfriend.

A few minutes later, they said, McLachlan drove his car through a wall of the pub, coming to a stop about four feet inside. Miss Donovan was not injured in the incident, although one minor injury was reported, cops said.

Hubby admits he chained his bride like a dog and made her eat garbage!

TORMENTED bride Beverly Anders finally escaped.

HUSBAND Robert Anders admitted he kept wife prisoner.

LANDLADY Helen Allen also pleaded guilty in the case.

A heartless hubby admitted he chained his young bride outside like a dog, forced her to eat garbage and told her when she could bathe, what she could wear and when she could have sex with him.

By JACK ALEXANDER

The NEWS reported in January that Air Force Sgt. Robert Anders and his landlady, Helen Allen, were arrested after his tormented bride, Beverly, trudged a half mile draped in 20 feet of heavy chain to beg a neighbor's help.

Anders and Helen Allen pleaded guilty in Spokane, Wash., to false imprisonment of his wife, who was chained in an unheated shed for days at a time.

"She was forced to rummage through garbage cans for food because they gave her very little to eat," said Sheriff's Det. Bruce Mathews. "She was badly malnourished."

The nightmare began for Beverly, 22, when she and her husband moved into Mrs. Allen's home soon after they were married.

She was forced to live by a set of "so-called house rules that told her how often she could bathe, how to dress, what she could wear to bed and how often she could have sex with her husband," said Sheriff's Lt. John Goldman.

The helpless woman was forced to pick grass with her hands to feed the livestock, and she had to clean up after them, Lt. Goldman said. "They threatened to have her locked up in a mental institution if she didn't cooperate," he said.

Anders and Mrs. Allen were originally indicted on four counts of unlawful imprisonment, but pleaded guilty to one count on a plea bargain.

95-mile long iceberg is melting

The world's biggest iceberg is the size of Hong Kong and is an incredible 1,155 feet thick, the New Zealand Press Association said.

The giant slab of ice is called B9 and it is slowly melting in Antarctica.

The 95-mile long, 22-mile wide berg cracked off the Ross Ice Shelf 18 months ago and has been drifting in a giant 620-mile circle since then. It has lost about six miles of its length as it slowly melts, but despite early fears, it has presented no threat to shipping in the area.

How to tell if your kid worships Satan

If your teen has lost his or her sense of humor, dresses in black and is fascinated with bizarre symbols, he or she could be in the clutches of Satanism, say experts.

Other clues that teenagers may be involved in Satan worship may include mental lapses, panic disorders, difficulty expressing themselves and deteriorating physical condition, according to experts.

Satanist expert Dale W. Griffis says there have been estimates that as many as 50,000 youths are killed each year during Satanic rituals in America.

TOWN'S WACKY LAW:

Get permission before you pick manure up off street!

If you're ever in West Springfield, Mass., don't try and remove any manure you find on the street without first getting permission from the superintendent of streets — because it's against the law.

The goofy ban was put on the books in 1933 and today, nobody knows why.

"I've been here 41 years and I never heard of it," chuckled Superintendent of Streets James J. Wheeler.

"I can't see why they wouldn't want to make it easy for people to remove it — unless is was somebody's job way back when."

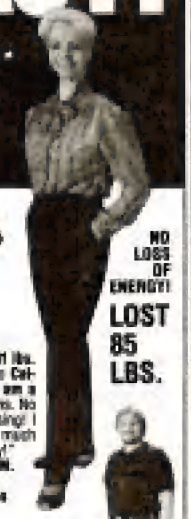
"I LOST 85 LBS. FAST!

and went from size 22 to size 10 in no time flat... WITHOUT DIETING"

GUARANTEED to work for you too!



DIET DISCOVERY ASTOUNDS SCIENTIFIC COMMUNITY!

In what is being acclaimed a "major breakthrough", a group of European scientists have recently discovered a powerful new weight-loss formula that causes rapid weight loss without dieting. The discovery was made while researchers at the University of Kuopio, in Finland, were searching for a compound to lower cholesterol. In a test group of people who took the formula, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but doctors were astounded to find that every patient had lost a significant amount of weight!

ACTUALLY SUPPRESSES ABSORPTION OF CALORIES!

Medical researchers quickly discovered that this new formula actually alters the way your body digests food. When taken before mealtime it bonds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories, preventing their absorption. So a substantial portion of the ingested calories pass through and out of the digestive system unabsorbed. Even though you eat as much as you want, a rapid weight loss occurs, as your body burns fat to replace those lost (unabsorbed) calories.

CLINICALLY TESTED

Further medical tests of the new formula have been made in Sweden at Sahlgrens Hospital, University of Göteborg. Results published in the BRITISH JOURNAL OF NUTRITION stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced during the study even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits." This new compound is so powerful, so effective and so relentless in its attack on bulging deposits of fatty tissue that it has virtually eliminated the need for dieting or torturous exercise."

PROVEN SAFE/EFFECTIVE

After exhaustive testing, the new compound was determined to be safe and was formulated into one of the most effective weight-reducing pills of all time. This revolutionary formulation is being marketed in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000™. It is now available without a prescription from Anderson Pharmacals, which holds exclusive North American rights to Cal-Ban 3000™. Cal-Ban 3000™ is derived from a 100% natural plant source and contains no drugs or stimulants.

EAT ALL YOU WANT AND KEEP LOSING!

Cal-Ban 3000™ allows you to continue to eat and enjoy as much of your favorite foods as you want. All you have to do is to remember to take your Cal-Ban 3000™! Within hours your body's fat cells will start to shrink. You'll be amazed at how fast measurable results can be seen! Some best case histories report losing up to 8 pounds of fat and fluid in the first 72 hours! Dissolving away up to 15 pounds the first week and dropping up to 45 pounds of fat the first month! Others have continued to lose up to 60, 80 and 90 or more pounds.

ACT NOW TO CHANGE YOUR LIFE!

Now you can transform your body into a slender, more youthful figure with ease. You can become the trim, attractive man or woman who is admired by everyone! Some Cal-Ban 3000™ users have reported losing a full dress size in one week...2 dress sizes in 14 days! You'll feel great about yourself when you see how good you look in stylish new clothes! Commies ban barber shaves to stop AIDS

Soviet officials are so worried about the spread of AIDS that they've ordered Russian barbers to quit giving shaves!

The official newspaper of the Communist Youth League reported that the shaving ban was imposed in response to an inspection which revealed barbers rarely sterilize their razors. "This is one of the preventive measures against the possible spreading of AIDS," the newspaper quoted deputy sanitation chief Vera Vinogradova as saying.

THIS scene from a horror movie directed by Wes Craven is based on his own encounter with a zombie.

Director of 'Freddy' horror movies meets a real-life zombie

FREDDY Kruger is movie-maker Craven's best known villain.

By JOE BERGER

High priest of horror Wes Craven has terrified audiences with some of the most spine-chilling movie monsters of all time. But Craven had to stifle a scream of his own — the night he came face-to-face with a real-life zombie!

The man who's given us bloodcurdling villains like Freddy Kruger in Nightmare On Elm Street actually shook hands with a girl who'd returned from the grave in the voodoo nation of Haiti.

"Her flesh was cool and dry and I knew I was shaking hands with the living dead," said the still-trembling director.

The 17-year-old girl named Rosemary had ticked off vicious voodoo witch doctors and they had condemned her to be buried alive.

Craven said hapless victims like Rosemary are first sprayed with a paralyzing powder that makes them appear dead.

"They can still see everything, feel everything — all move a muscle, can't speak, they appear not to be breathing anymore. So they are pronounced dead and buried in a coffin after all the usual rites.

"The voodoo doctor who administered the poison then goes to the cemetery and awaits for the effects to wear off.

"He listens for the sound of a struggle in the coffin, grabs a spade and smashes open the casket.

"The 'corpse' is then carried away and given another hallucinatory drug that turns them into a zombie."

Craven said Rosemary's family thought she had died of a fever.

"But eight weeks later she was found wandering in a cane field — dazed, aimless and unable to speak.

"She had been buried alive for 24 hours and was a genuine zombie."

FILM director Wes Craven describes his nightmare.

Prince and was so impressed by the eerie encounter that he incorporated the experience in his new movie, The Serpent and The Rainbow.

"When I looked into her eyes, I was looking at somebody inside who couldn't get out," he said.

"In our civilized western world, it is hard to believe

Toddler dies after biting her tongue!

Adorable Mandy Waters died tragically — after biting her tongue!

The 13-month-old girl from Erith, England, suffered from a rare disease which made it impossible for her to feel pain. So when she bit a chunk out of her tongue and developed a massive infection, her parents knew nothing about it.

Little Mandy went on to develop blood poisoning and the infection killed her.

She left behind a small brother, 4, and a sister, 2, who also suffer from an inability to feel pain.

"We watch them like hawks," said Christine, 35, Mandy's mother. "But where most children will cry and let you know if something is hurting, ours will be running around laughing."

Shocking new birth control for men — Super Glue!

Chinese docs have solved the sticky birth control problem in their country by using Super Glue — to gum up the works in men.

"So far there have been no side effects," said Dr. Mahmoud Fathalla in a report to the International Planned Parenthood Federation in London, England.

The bizarre method is as simple as it sounds. Docs inject glue into the sperm-carrying tubes in the man, causing a permanent road block. The operation takes just 10 minutes, always works and is permanent, said Dr. Fathalla.

However, the method has yet to be approved by medical governing groups in western countries.

Killer complains to judge:

Cops shocked me with a toy electric chair to make me confess!

By PETE COOKE

An accused killer claimed cops forced a confession out of him — by shocking him with a toy electric chair!

Larry Talbert, 19, said he was being questioned in connection with a shooting in Delray Beach, Fla., when a detective zapped him with a battery-operated toy electric chair.

"He said I was going to get the electric chair if I don't talk," Talbert told Judge James Carlisle. "When he picked it up, it say, 'Bzzzz!' "

But investigators said that after Talbert's arrest in the slaying of Harold Guillaume outside a convenience store, Talbert was taken directly to an interview room and didn't see the toy electric chair until after he confessed.

"After the confession, I brought him into my office," said Sgt. Bob Brand. "I handcuffed Mr. Talbert to the chair in my office."

Sgt. Brand said Talbert reached over to pick up the toy electric chair that was sitting on the desk, but the detective told him not to because it would shock him.

Sgt. Brand told the judge that he picked up the toy and it buzzed.

Judge Carlisle ruled that prosecutors could use Talbert's confession and the case proceeded

According to authorities, Talbert and another teen were armed with a rifle when they rode up to a convenience store on a bicycle.

The two were planning to rob Guillaume, 45, but Talbert shot him in the chest.

Jurors deliberated for seven hours before convicting Talbert of first-degree murder, attempted robbery with a firearm and conspiracy to commit robbery.

He faces the death penalty in the electric chair or life in prison when he is sentenced in the case.

Talbert's accomplice pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and was sentenced to 17 years.

In bizarre plot to get address of man who raped her . . .

VENGEFUL HOUSEWIFE LURES 6 COPS INTO SEX TRAP!

DRIVEN by desire for revenge against a man she claimed had raped her 12 years before, Denise Day enticed six cops into steamy sex romps so she could get information from them.

By RAFE KLINGER

Vengeance-bent wife Denise Day enticed six cops into steamy sex romps so they would help her get revenge against a man she claimed raped her 12 years before.

The 38-year-old Luton, England, woman used the sex sessions to get the address of her target and then got her policeman hubby to firebomb the man's house.

Details of the shocking scheme came to light at a hearing in St. Albans Crown Court where Mrs. Day and her 38-year-old hubby Roger admitted committing arson. They were arrested after an anonymous tip to police.

"I know I am a bitch and that I was using the policemen," said Denise. "I realized I should have put the past behind me and gotten on with my life. But I couldn't. I wanted to find out where that man was living and eventually I did."

She convinced Roger, who knew nothing of her love romps with the policemen, to slip a firebomb through the letter slot of her target's home. Luckily, the man and his family escaped the blaze that followed.

Mrs. Day said she became obsessed with getting revenge after the man she claimed raped her was cleared of the charge 12 years before. She hatched her sex trap plan when police started coming to the gas station where she worked nights. She believed she could use them for information and then escape prosecution by holding the illicit sex flings over their heads.

"In the end I knew I had power over these policemen because of what happened between me and them," she said.

Mrs. Day's scheme began the night one policeman dropped by while she was tending the station alone. One thing led to another and they made love on the desk in the office, she said.

Afterwards, he told her about another policeman who worked the late shift. That officer became her lover, too.

Soon, Mrs. Day was having sex regularly with six officers.

She even had the police recruits in training take off their uniforms and work the cash register in the gas station while she and her cop lovers went into the office to make love.

"They would take the money from customers and, without their jackets, no one realized they were coppers," she recalled. "The only problem was they couldn't deal with credit cards. They would have to come in and break up whatever I was doing. That meant I had to get up, adjust my clothing and go and serve the customer."

Booze binge kills birthday teen

By DICK DONOVAN

Foolhardy Lee Jackson marked his 19th birthday by guzzling a gallon of beer and almost a quart of pure booze. Then he went to bed to sleep it off — for eternity!

The tragic teenager's father found him sprawled dead in his bed when he went to wake him for work the following morning.

ing father said. "But it was too late. Not even the Kiss of Life could save my son by then."

Lee spent his last days of life with pals who treated him to a tour of neighborhood bars in Nuneaton, England, to celebrate his 19th birthday.

Stopping at two or three pubs, Lee downed eight or cocktail lounge where they tied into some really serious drinking.

In Casey's Lounge, Lee belted down three 4-ounce mixtures of pure whiskey, vodka, gin and whatever other liquor that was available.

"To make those drinks, the bartender just goes along the rows of bottles and pours a bit of everything into a half-pint mug," explained Mark Boardman, who was with Lee on his fatal bash.

he had actually drank three of those cocktails."

After his third drink, Lee collapsed and had to be carried home to bed. It was a sleep that he would never awake from.

A coroner said Lee died sometime during the night of severe alcohol poisoning.

"It's not right that people should be served drinks like those," Lee's outraged father charged. "People don't realize

Gal sues photo shop over sexy snapshots

They gave embarrassing pic to her co-worker and he showed it around, waitress claims in suit

Two months after a photo shop clerk told Jackie Dunn that her film came out blank, she got the surprise of her life — when a man she works with held up a picture of Jackie posing on the edge of her bed in a negligee!

"I never, ever dreamed anything like this could happen to me," said the 28-year-old waitress from Nashville, Tenn. "It's like a tornado coming into my life. I don't understand why it happened."

The trouble started last October when Jackie's boyfriend took some pictures of her. One showed Jackie sitting on her bed dressed in a negligee and toasting with a glass of champagne. The next day Jackie dropped the film off at Moto Photo, a one-hour developing shop, so she could give the prints to her boyfriend before he left town.

But when she went back to Moto Photo to pick up her pictures, a woman working behind the counter said that, "the film had been exposed and the negatives came out blank," according to Jackie.

Two months later Jackie was at the Nashville restaurant where she works as a waitress when Tex Monahan, a bouncer at the establishment, showed around the picture of Jackie in her negligee.

The waitress said Monahan told her that he obtained the picture when he played Santa Claus at the Moto Photo store and asked Mike Pinto, one of the employees, if he had any "dirty pictures" to show him.

"Pinto told Tex that he had a stack of pictures of Moto Photo customers which Moto Photo kept without the knowledge of their customers," Jackie claims in her lawsuit for $755,000 against Moto Photo, Mike Pinto and Tex Monahan.

ARE YOU GOING TO HEAVEN ?

God's terms are clear! "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shall be saved." (Acts 16:31)

It is more than believing ABOUT Him! We must abandon all other hope! We must trust, depend, rely on the shed blood of Christ ALONE, 100% as the only payment for our sins. Even though going to Church, being Baptized, and living a good life are all good things, none of them can get you to Heaven. Only accepting Jesus as your Savior can. Please read on. Jesus said,

"I am the way, the truth, and the life: no one comes to the Father but by me." (John 14:16)

"He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have have life." (1 John 5:12)

Accept Jesus today. You never know when you will die. Hell is forever.

RECEIVE CHRIST NOW (John 1:12)

You can invite Jesus Christ into your life right now by praying to God something like the following.

Dear Lord, I know that I am a sinner and that I need Your forgiveness. I believe that Christ died in my place to pay the penalty for my sin and that He rose from the dead. I now invite Jesus Christ to come into my life as my Savior. Thank you for making me Your child. Help me learn to please You in every part of my life.

My Decision:

On _____ (Date) I, _____ (Your Name)

received Jesus Christ as my Savior. If you just now received Christ as your Personal Savior, the following has taken place: your sins were forgiven (Colossians 1:14); you became a child of God (John 1:12); you were made heir to all God's blessings (Romans 8:16-17); you now possess everlasting life (1 John 5:12-13). CONVICT Carl Rhoades Metal-munching con eats razors, nuts, bolts, bedsprings . . . & GAINS 15 POUNDS OVERNIGHT!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Skinny con Carl Rhoades gained about 15 pounds overnight when he swallowed 100 razor blades, bedsprings, nuts, bolts and any chunk of metal he could lay his hands on.

"He was either trying to commit suicide or get attention," said Hutchinson, Kans., prison spokesman Les Harmon. "It hurts to even think about what's in his stomach."

Rhoades, 32, had served almost one year of a 10 to 20-year sentence for aggravated battery and drug possession when he gulped down the metal.

Prison officials had no idea what was in Rhoades' belly until he complained of stomach pains. He was taken from his cell to the prison hospital.

"X rays of his stomach revealed several 3-inch by 1-inch bedsprings, numerous razor blades, nuts, bolts and many other pieces of metal that we couldn't identify," said Officer Harmon. When Rhoades refused to let doctors remove the metal from his stomach, the state got a judge to rule doctors could operate without the con's consent.

"Trouble is, no doctor wants to operate on him," said Harmon. "They're probably worried about malpractice problems."

The metal-laden inmate has relieved himself of much of the metal he swallowed by normal means since he was admitted to the infirmary at the Kansas State Industrial Reformatory.

"But there is still a pile of it in his stomach," said Officer Harmon.

"The doctors the prison checked with say the metal isn't life-threatening."

ARIES

Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Your insights and intuitions are right on the money this week. Pay close attention to what that little voice inside tells you and don't be afraid to act forcefully on impulse.

Older relatives can play key roles, especially in financial matters. If you need a loan or gift of cash, this is the time to ask for it.

A nagging health problem disappears and now that you're feeling tip-top, you should get out and socialize. The change of pace will do wonders for your outlook.

TAURUS

Apr. 20-May 20

All right, clever Taurus, a little sleuthing this week could make you very rich. Somebody you see every day has all the information you need to make a whopping fortune — quickly, easily and legally. But it's up to you to track the person down and show that you're more than just interested.

A casual remark you made weeks ago has a friend smarting. Offer a sincere apology.

Be real careful where you walk this week.

GEMINI

May 21-June 20

Your dazzling smile and twinkling eyes work magic for you this week. A stunning member of the opposite sex makes a play for you — and even the old grouch in your life warms up to your irresistible grin. Use your charm wisely and fairly or you could break someone's heart.

Something that happens high in the mountains will have a profound effect on your life, though you may not realize it right away. Watch for clues. Small animals could pose a real danger now.

CANCER

June 21-July 22

What seemed to be an endless series of setbacks and delays is, at last, coming to an end. You should be able to make real progress toward goals this week. Remember to keep relationships with others smooth and easygoing so that you can take advantage of your usual moon good luck.

Are you getting all the cuddling you need? Don't be afraid to ask for a little loving. It will make you and others feel better and strengthen the bonds between you.

LEO

July 23-Aug. 22

What an upbeat week! Everything is going to go right with you, especially matters relating to money. But don't get too complacent. Set aside a little for the future when your luck might not be so good.

Your troubles with a friend will be resolved this week and those worries about your love interest will melt away, too. Blue will be a lucky color all week long, so wear it with a smile. The only small cloud to mar these glorious days is your health. Rest up to avoid a cold or flu.

VIRGO

Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Proceed with caution when an old flame tries to rekindle the relationship. Though you may be flattered, don't forget the reasons why the affair fizzled the first time around.

A once-in-a-lifetime financial opportunity is about to come your way and you should be ready to pounce on it. Get expert advice if necessary, but don't miss the boat.

A neighborhood battle is brewing and you'd be smart to steer clear of the trouble. Minor disagreements may quickly escalate.

LIBRA

Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Despite your best efforts, you will be backed against the wall by those you sought to help. Don't be afraid to take charge of the situation and let the chips fall where they may.

A surprise phone call from an old friend will bring good news and an unusual opportunity. You would be wise to take advantage of this chance instead of worrying about failure as Libras sometimes do.

Now is the time to tackle a pressing household chore that you've been postponing for too long.

SCORPIO

Oct. 23-Nov. 21

The week ahead holds some wonderful surprises in store for you. All your efforts have been noted and those who can make your dreams come true are about to act. Go for it, Scorpio!

The problems you've encountered with a loved one are about to melt away. Happiness is just around the corner — if you take the first step.

Reserve the morning hours for studying any business or financial deals. You'll think more clearly then.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You've been living and loving in three-quarter time and you have waltzed your way into a go-nowhere rut. It's time to kick up your heels and swing out in new directions. There's a side to you, Archer, that the world hasn't seen yet!

Success and money are becoming an obsession with you. They are goals that can be self-destructive unless you realize there are other things in life worth striving for.

A phone call about money will cause concern, but don't worry.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Everything seems to be going your way this week so why not take some chances? Gambles on romantic and financial matters should give best results. The odds are definitely in Capricorn's favor.

You feel in tip-top shape this week and you may have a burst of energy that allows you to tackle a tough job that you've been putting off.

A dark-haired stranger may pay you a compliment and may even give you some medical advice.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Strange and mysterious events will have an effect on your fortunes the coming year. An unforgettable dream about a friend from your past will lead to an unexpected windfall.

Later, you will find an article of clothing on the street or in a shopping mall. Do your best to return it. The grateful owner will reward you in an unexpected way.

A minor illness will cause you to cancel an appointment and avoid a mishap that could have seriously injured you.

Flattery will win you affection from the one you desire.

AQUARIUS

Jan. 20-Feb. 18

A chance meeting with a stranger by the produce section of a grocery store will possibly turn your life in a new direction.

Keep your eyes and ears open.

The color blue and the word star are symbols of good fortune in your life the next week. Be alert and take advantage of the opportunity when it arises. Your diligence and hard work will pay big dividends soon.

Someone you greatly respect will make you an offer that is more valu-

PISCES

Feb. 19-Mar. 20

The business world is where the inventive Fish shines. Go with that idea you've been thinking about for so long. Your boss will praise your ingenuity and may even offer you a raise.

Someone you love will bring you a gift that contains a message. Read the message carefully, but don't make a hasty decision.

Quit worrying about how much that dream vacation will cost. You'll manage it.

Relax and enjoy life.

A lion ate my dad — did it eat his soul too?

Dear Countess Sabak: I talked to a fortune-teller at a fair about two weeks ago and she told me something that makes me fear for my late father's soul.

My father was born on July 1, 1888, and he died a few years after I was born in 1919.

The manner of his passing was quite horrible, I'm told. You see, he was helping to build a railroad in the African Congo and was killed by a man-eating lion.

When the railroad superintendent and a hunter went looking for the lion (it had carried dad off into the bush), all they found were his blood-stained shirt, a shoe, his little finger and the top of his skull. The lion had eaten everything else.

The lion was shot a few days later, but of course by that time there was nothing left of dad in its stomach.

And that brings me back to the fortune-teller.

When I asked her if dad was happy in the Beyond, she said that souls who have departed their life at the hands of an animal can never find peace — especially if their entire body is not recovered.

She said she could say special prayers for dad that would reunite all the different parts of his soul that had been chopped up by the lion, but it would cost me $200.

Countess, I don't have that kind of money, so I'm turning to you. Is my dad happy in the Hereafter? And did the lion destroy his soul when it tore apart his body? — Worried in Wisconsin

Dear Worried: Your father is at peace. The body is merely a vessel for the soul, and the soul survives intact, no matter how that body is destroyed. Please set your mind at rest — and stay away from the fortune-teller you consulted. All she wants is your money.

Dear Countess Sabak: My husband passed away two years ago, leaving me six thousand dollars from a life insurance policy. I know he had money saved, and although we have searched everywhere, we've found nothing.

I would like to know if there is any hidden money.

Also, do you see me finding happiness again in the future? I was born 1/19/11. — D.H. in Pennsylvania

Dear D.H.: I don't get any sense of hidden fortune, but I can tell you that you'll find happiness. Look to a dark-haired Taurus. His love and companionship will enrich your life in more meaningful ways than mere money can.

Dear Countess Sabak: I have two men in my life whom I love dearly.

I'm married to one, and the other is my childhood sweetheart, who wants to be a part of my life again.

I am in a state of confusion and would like to know what the future holds for me. I was born on 5/25/54. — G.S.C. in Texas

Dear G.S.C.: Dark shadows stand tall in both your houses of romance and that of relationships, signifying trouble ahead.

Before you can enter into any future happiness, indications are that you make a firm and final break with the past. Be warned, my dear!

Dear Countess Sabak: I have been seeing a guy, actually my first love, since 1980. During this time he has been married to two older women. One has his 3-year-old child.

He is still married, but has come back to me again.

I'm wondering if we will ever have a steady relationship and be married some day? Birth date 9/22/63. — H.B. in West Virginia

Dear H.B.: There are no indications whatsoever of a happy and permanent relationship with this individual.

You need to get out and about and back in circulation.

Dear Countess Sabak: My daughter has been trying to become pregnant for over two years. Now the doctor has put her on a fertility drug.

We would like to know if you can tell if her wish to have a child will come true.

Her birth date is 8/17/66 and mine is 1/24/48. Thank you for your time. We love your column. — F.B. in Georgia

Dear F.B.: When the sun enters your sign next month bringing sunny skies, you can expect several happy changes in your personal life.

One could be the arrival of the grand baby you're looking for.

COURTROOM OUTRAGE!

Softie judge lets off baby-killer dad

By PETE COOKE

Kevin Browne killed his baby girl because he was jealous of the attention showered on her, but a sympathetic judge set him free, saying he'd suffered enough!

The 26-year-old laborer spent five months in jail before pleading guilty to a manslaughter charge in the death of his daughter, Stacey, and was immediately turned loose by bleeding-heart Judge James Rant.

"I believe Browne has been sufficiently punished already," the judge said. "His marriage is over and these terrible events will never be forgotten by any member of the family. He himself must face the knowledge that it was his act that caused the death."

British authorities in London claimed Browne shook his 7-month-old daughter to death in a fit of jealousy. Police said Browne killed the baby "because he was jealous of the affection his wife showed the child."

The girl died of a blood clot in the brain caused by the shaking. But despite Browne's guilty plea the judge set him free, saying, "He has no convictions for violence and I am satisfied he is not normally a brutal person."

Outside the courtroom an angry crowd formed and shouted threats at Browne as he left the hearing.

LUCKY Kevin Browne got away with manslaughter when judge decided not to send him to the slammer.

Oldsters ban 46-year-old gal — for being too young!

A couple bought a home in a retirement community, but the 46-year-old wife can't move in — because she's too young!

"It was just a big headache that we'd like to forget," said 80-year-old Theodore Romer, whose wife, Mary Ann, won't be old enough to live with him in their new home for two years.

The New York City couple bought a home in Rossmoor, a retirement community near Monroe, N.J. Under the terms of a court-approved settlement, Mrs. Romer may own property in Rossmoor, but can't be a fulltime resident until she is 48.

An attorney for the Romers said the couple will continue living in Manhattan and spend their weekends in the retirement community that is located 35 miles southwest of the city.

Dinosaurs wiped out by big crash

Dinosaurs were wiped out by a meteor that slammed into the Earth 66 million years ago, according to a new study.

Geologist Ashis Basu of the University of Rochester in New York said he believes the giant meteor hit in India and touched off volcanic activity that killed all the dinosaurs on the planet.

Basu's conclusion is based on his analysis of rocks in central India. He said the rocks show signs of having withstood a massive impact.

Wacky pirates turn honeymoon into nightmare for newlyweds

By SHEL TRUMAN

A young couple's honeymoon cruise went haywire when three naked pirates boarded their boat and terrorized them for hours!

They were naked & had swords

"They demanded our food, money and booze and when we gave them that, they decided to have some fun with us," Roberto Avila Galaz, 31, told reporters in tiny Taltal, Chile.

"They threatened to chop my head off with a sword unless I danced until I dropped. Then they tied my wife to a chair and threatened to rape her if she didn't sing.

"It was a nightmare come true," he continued. "Thank God, they finally got tired of tormenting us and left in their own boat."

The bizarre drama unfolded a few miles off the Chilean coast where Galaz and his new wife, 28-year-old Bianca, had anchored to spend their wedding night.

Just after sundown a small fishing boat pulled alongside their 32-foot yacht and the three nude pirates climbed aboard.

"Bianca saw them first and immediately called out to me," said Galaz. "I knew something was wrong because the men weren't wearing a stitch of clothes and each of them had a sword.

"I asked them what the hell was going on and told them to get off our boat.

"When I did that they just laughed."

Galaz said the men popped the corks on three bottles of champagne and chugged them like beer.

They also ate most of the couple's provisions, including a fat slice of their wedding cake and a 14-pound, honey-cured ham.

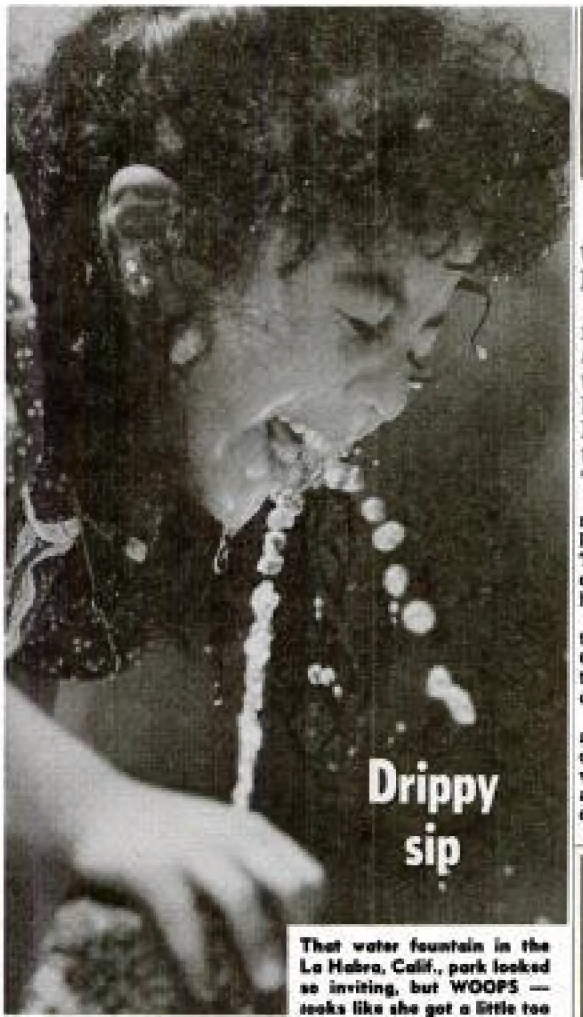
"They demanded money and we gave all we had," said Galaz. "Then they tied up my wife and told me to dance or they'd chop off my head.

"When I collapsed from exhaustion they made Bianca sing.

"They threatened to rape her if she didn't cooperate."

The mind-blowing ordeal continued for almost three hours before the pirates tired of their game. Without saying a word they went back to their own boat and motored away, Galaz said.

Police said they have no clues in the bizarre case.



That water fountain in the La Habra, Calif., park looked so inviting, but WOOPS — looks like she got a little too close for that first sip.

Patient shot in dentist's chair

Harry Lum had already gotten one shot in preparation for a root canal at the dentist's office when he suddenly got yet another shot — a gunshot in the hip!

The San Francisco man was blasted by the bullet from an AK-47 assault rifle fired through the ceiling of the dentist's office. The man upstairs, a gun-shop employee, was doing some repair work at home when the rifle he was working on accidentally went off. Lum canceled his appointment. He still needs a root canal.

Holy man buried head in sand for 5 years!

By TAL DRUMMOND

An Indian holy man has spent the past five years with his head totally buried in the sand!

Incredibly, Poonam Shastri has vowed to spend the rest of his life in the bizarre upside-down position — while coming down only once a day for five minutes to sip water and dine on a crust of bread.

HOLY man Poonam Shastri has been like this since 1984.

"Poonam is divine," Sanjiv Delani, one of the Hindu holy man's devoted followers, told newsmen in Trichur, India.

"His love, devotion and sacrifice is truly an inspiration to us all."

Newspapers confirmed that Shastri, 42, has kept his head buried in the sand just east of Trichur since April 2, 1984.

In a final interview before Shastri began his ordeal, he reportedly said: "Do not ask why I do this. It is my life. This is my way. There is no other reason for it. I will be here until I die."

Since that time the holy man — who wears nothing but a scanty piece of cotton — has endured great extremes of weather, biting insects and even an attack by a tiger.

His friends and followers deliver the meager rations that he lives on precisely at noon every day.

"Poonam emerges from the sand and sits silently while he partakes of his bread and water," said Delani. "Most of the time his eyes remain closed.

"When he opens them they literally sparkle like diamonds. He doesn't talk. But sometimes he rears back his head and laughs like a hyena."

Dr. Nath Kumar is one of the world's foremost authorities on the Hindu religion and its rituals. He says that Shastri is only one of thousands of holy men who put themselves through excruciating pain while seeking enlightenment.

"Their rituals and methods are quite extreme," said the expert. "But faith and devotion enable them to overcome the pain."

Nurse counsels those who have died

. . . and come back!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Diane Corcoran has a bizarre specialty — she's a near-death nurse!

The middle-aged Army colonel has devoted years of her life to counseling people who have died, gone to heaven and come back to life again. Now she's trying to reach her colleagues in the medical profession with advice on how to deal with near-death patients.

"Lots of people who have experienced near death are suffering," said Col. Corcoran of Ft. Sam Houston in Texas. "They think they're crazy. They don't talk about their experiences. They can't find anyone who understands."

Col. Corcoran first developed an interest in near-death experiences — or NDEs — when she was asked to counsel a young mother with terminal lung cancer. The woman was terrified of dying, Col. Corcoran recalled, until she suffered respiratory arrest during surgery and got a glimpse of the afterlife before doctors revived her.

From then on the 26-year-old cancer victim faced death without fear, Col. Corcoran said. But when she tried to tell her doctors what had happened, they upset her by blaming her "hallucinations" on drugs.

"The thing that made her sad was that no one understood," Col. Corcoran recalled. "She'd gone to heaven and seen the future of her husband and children. She wasn't afraid anymore. She died a few days after I spoke with her."

After her encounter with that patient, Col. Corcoran began specializing in counseling people who died and were revived. She has worked to learn as much about the process as possible so she can convince doctors it really happens.

For the past 10 years, Col. Corcoran has interviewed patients who describe near-death experiences. She has found that most people felt themselves leave their bodies and travel through a tunnel of light to a place of overwhelming peace and love. They are usually welcomed by dead relatives or loving strangers and told they must return to live out the rest of their lives.

"I've seen hundreds of people who have had this experience," the nurse said. "If you talk to other nurses, they see it all the time. At least half of intensive care patients have near-death experiences.

"I keep records so I can refer them to one another, and I give talks to nurses and doctors to help them understand what people have gone through. We should educate people so they understand this is a normal occurrence. It changes people's lives forever — and that is not something we should dismiss.

NURSE Corcoran counsels people who've seen heaven.

EXPLORE OUTER SPACE — WITH THEIR MINDS!

Secret out-of-body experiments take 'explorers' to dozens of ...opulated planets, expert claims

By WILL SIMPSON

Psychics are traveling to the far reaches of e universe by projecting their minds into ace!

That's the shocking claim of East German scientist min Kreter, who says that Soviet, British and Amer- psychics have been ex- ring the universe psy- ically for the past 10 ars.

Quoting from classified documents he allegedly obtained from a top Soviet source, Dr. Kreter said that the great powers have learned that:

● A planet code-named Pegasus that revolves around a star in the innermost regions of the Milky Way is inhabited by a race of intelligent ants.

● Black holes are infinite. It is almost impossible for the human mind to comprehend, but a spaceship that enters a black hole would travel forever — while standing still.

● The universe is finite and has a distinct boundary. Psychics who passed through the boundary wound up at the place they started from.

● A giant sun in a galaxy called X-241 is surrounded by no less than 200 inhabited planets.

● The entire universe revolves around a fist-sized gem that emits blue and gold rays and looks remarkably like a diamond.

"No more than seven psychics have participated in the space-travel experiments to date but it is clear that the future of space exploration lies with them," Dr. Kreter told newsmen in Karl Marx Stadt, East Germany.

"Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union have been conducting these experiments independently for the past decade. But there is evidence that they are preparing to combine their programs for claims on classified documents that he allegedly obtained from a Soviet scientist in Moscow.

The papers, dated Aug. 7, 1988, allege that then-President Ronald Reagan, Mikhail Gorbachev and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher were not only aware of the experiments, they had discussed them in one-on-one meetings held over the past eight years.

It is not clear how the psychics are able to project their minds into outer space. But Dr. Kreter said that they are able to travel mind-blowing distances in an instant.

He also speculated that the space-travel programs are an been conducting secretly since World War 2.

Not surprisingly, U.S., Soviet and British authorities denied having any knowledge of the program — and possibly to avoid media interference while negotiations to combine their efforts are ongoing.

"The use of psychics in such an important undertaking is a watershed in the development of mankind," said Dr. Kreter.

"There is no limit to what we can learn from these pioneers. This is definitely the beginning of a new intellectual era for mankind.

"I might add that psychic space travel should make conventional manned and probe
